

how to Love

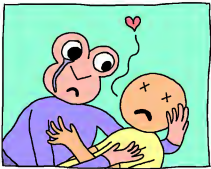

"HAPPY ENDING"

Love stories seldom have happy endings.

The greatest love stories
end in death 💀

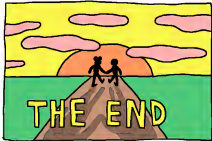

The lighter ones often end
in a union

a kiss, a marriage,
walking hand in hand into sunsets.

This ending is also a kind of death:
not the death of the lovers,
or of their love

but the death of the love story.

Some stories feel the need to add “and they lived happily ever after”

but such a blunt denial of sadness only draws attention to the fact that sadness is inevitable

because endings are inevitable.

But oh! the joy to be had while it lasts!

Like all love stories,
this story of reader and author
sadly must come to an end.

But you can halt this ending.
You can keep our relationship alive

by re-reading...

and if you keep re-reading

we will live happily ever after.

THE END. 